

Benchmark 4: Linking curriculum learning to careers

- Where appropriate for students, learning in lessons is given a 'real life' focus; for example, using money is covered in maths, reading job adverts and writing CVs is covered in English.
- Life and living lessons focus on developing key skills that will prepare students for post-16, living independently and entering the world of work.
- The core PSHE thread of 'living in the wider world' includes lessons which are adapted to address the individual barriers each student may have to help develop their social and communication skills to access the world of work.